Dear Members;

I received a notice of public hearing by mail and I wish to make a comment on the submitted application for interpretation on 2102 Partners LLC. I live in the neighborhood and I am impacted by this business that now has expanded by the addition of a new business Hydrovac Excavating Inc. I wish to join my neighbors to support them in opposing an interpretation that finds that this business is the same and falls under the original Use Variance. They are clearly different businesses that do completely different functions. You can see right from their Facebook Page "Hydrovac has grown to the point where Hydrovac service supports utilities (electric, gas, water, sewer, telecommunications), their contractors, and engineers on a daily basis, digging thousands of holes per year. We service the Tri-State area including Albany, NY, but have done work as far as Baltimore, MD" This operation has nothing to do with Tank Lining and should not have moved onto this property.

Regards,

Attached Exhibits from Facebook

- 1) Main Facebook Page showing Demolition & Excavation and also do Remediation.
- 2) Photo of the size of just one of the trucks.
- 3) Working at 42nd & 8th Ave NYC
- 4) NYC Steam Pipe
- 5) NYC Times Square
- 6) Steel sleeve removed
- 7) Removing steel sleeve from high pressure gas transmission
- 8) Steel sleeve removal finished
- 9) Macombs place - Con Edison gas division

These items were taken from the Facebook Page of the business In question. I would ask the Zoning Board of Appeals is this really a Tank Lining Business. My answer is no, certainly not from everything they have listed and showed.

STORY

Hydrovac Excavating, Inc., established in 2003, is the 2nd business that has been owned and operated by the Conklin family. The 1st was a highly successful pump and tank business that was established in 1939 and sold in 1999.

Since 2003, Hydrovac has grown to the point where Hydrovac service supports utilities (electric, gas, water, sewer, telecommunications), their contractors, and engineers on a daily basis, digging thousands of holes per year. We service the Tri-State area including Albany, NY, but have done work as far as Baltimore, MD
